

Social Creation & Global Transformation Guide

The Visionary Network's companion guide to our virtual
'Visioning the World' global conference
November 16th-21st 2009

This is a step-by-step guide for creating social breakthroughs, global transformation and wonderful new ways of living for the 21st century.

It's written by a collaboration of visionary creators and global transformationalists from The Visionary Network (a.k.a. The Evolutionary Network). We love the exhilaration of creating new things that transform our way of life on this beautiful world. Co-creators of this Social Creation Guide are Manisha Dahad & Soleira Green in the UK, Dorothy Eckes in the USA, Judi Richardson in Canada and Jo Brill in Singapore.

Content:	Page #
SOCIAL CREATION & GLOBAL TRANSFORMATION	2
What is social creation versus social change? What is global transformation?
NEW PARADIGM OF PLAY	2
Abundance Grace & Fun Vibrant Energy Leaderful Collaboration Transformative Play
CONSCIOUSNESS AND FIELD CREATION	6
WONDERFUL EXAMPLES OF SOCIAL CREATION	9
SPECIAL CONTRIBUTIONS FROM US	10
From Dorothy Eckes (USA) – Already Done! From Judi Richardson (Canada) – My Business as a Profitable Source of Pleasure From Manisha Dahad (UK) – Harmony & Wholeness From Soleira Green (UK) – Hosting Visionary Events

SOCIAL CREATION & GLOBAL TRANSFORMATION

Let's start by looking at social creation and global transformation and how that's different today from what it was in the last century.

Social creation is about creating the world we want to see. It's not about fixing what's wrong or focusing on issues or problems. It's about creating new possibilities in exhilarating, leaderful, collaborative, inventive, vibrant, new ways. Social change is more about fixing or changing things a step at a time, while social creation is about creating anew what wants to happen now.

Social creators are people who are transforming the world by influencing how society occurs, whether that's in a community, city, nationally or globally. They're finding ways to:

- support and empower entrepreneurship and leadership in countries where aid has been the only offering,
- develop visionary businesses that contribute to the world and influence the way we do business in the world,
- influence global politics for the coming together of all nations for a better world,
- create new paradigms of education and learning to support the passionate generation of potential and genius in every single person all over the world and
- build community in their neighbourhoods, cities, nations and globally on the net and through interchange programmes.

We're beginning to see people in the direst of circumstances find vision in themselves and the courage to inspire others to do the same. We're seeing beyond poverty into new ways of having people generate abundance from dignity, respect and creativity. From micro-credit loans in Pakistan to people empowerment projects (like the Mali Initiative) in other countries, we're watching a world come alive in new ways for all people everywhere to be the best they can be, contributing to society as a whole.

Social creators are people who see how things can be and set about to make that real. As a social creator, you create, create, create! Always orienting to potential, you see possibility everywhere and align with the energy of what wants to happen now. This new creation becomes the true reality for you. You don't give energy to what is and all the problems or challenges associated with that. What you give energy to increases, so you only give your energy and creational focus to what wants to be now. And you have a ball doing it. There's no struggle to this because you're always in a dance with creation, aligned with the greater movement of possibility for us all.

When visionary creators focus on social creation, it's about introducing new concepts, ideas and possibilities into the fabric of society (be that local, national or global). You shape society by the nature of what you're creating and how you go about it. Social creation is amazing and touches many lives, locally, nationally and globally.

Global transformation is about altering how we live as a world and how we relate to ourselves, to one another, to the Earth, to the cosmoses and to Life. Global transformation can occur from the infusion of a single social creation project, but it's most likely to occur by a collective of visionaries around the world working together in consciousness and in reality to transform the foundational nature of us all.

A NEW PARADIGM OF PLAY

Visionary creators bring ABUNDANCE, GRACE, FUN, VIBRANT ENERGY, LEADERFUL COLLABORATION and TRANSFORMATIVE PLAY to the game of social creation and global transformation. Because you're aligned with Life and what wants to happen now, you step into a new paradigm of play ... one that's leaderful, collaborative, inventive, creational, transformative, gracious and abundant in all ways. Let's look at how to achieve that for your social creation and global transformation work:

ABUNDANCE: Social creators stand in the belief that this is an abundant world and that people are yearning to join in to make a difference now. We've discovered that you don't have to have tons of money or fill out a gazillion forms to get money from organisations to support you. You can do that, but don't let it get you stuck in a rut while you perform those tasks. As a social creator, you align with what Life wants and Life provides in the most stunning, unexpected ways ... a multitude of resources, people, ideas and offerings are called to us to bring the vision alive.

One of our guidelines is 'if you don't have passion or energy for it, don't do it.' Vibrant energy moves things along and calls people and opportunities to you and to what you're up to. Bored or stuck energy moves right into the energy field of what you're up to and people feel that and are then less inclined to want to play. It's not about clearing energy, it's about living 24/7 in the field of exhilarating creation, joy and adventure. So if ever you feel stuck or bored, try this. Seek an exhilarating, ecstatic relationship with something you love and watch your energy soar. Then pour that energy into the field of what you're up to and watch the connections soar! When you ignite your passion and vision, you ignite the connections and consciousness ... and wonderful people and opportunities pop into your world. Your passion and vision lights the signal fire for connection, collaboration and abundance to occur.

GRACE & FUN: Social creation is easy, fun and inspiring. There is a new way to do this now.

Social creators have moved beyond the fight. Know that you're part of a greater movement that's already happening. What you give energy to increases, so giving energy to the fight can often create more of what the problem is. Instead give your energy, enthusiasm and creativity to 'what can be' and having fun doing it. You're bringing the NEW into existence through creation and exhilarated, collaborative play.

Call the resonant people you want to play with. There are people who will resonate with your vision and who will delight in the possibility of making this real. You want to reach out to these resonant players in many ways ...

- by calling them in consciousness (expand, connect to consciousness and run the energy of your vision and passion into the bigger field of us all, calling those players to you now),
- through social networking (Facebook, Twitter and more)
- on the net via websites and email lists,
- through friends (ask everyone you know to share with others what you're up to, inviting them to come play if they share your passion) and
- any other way you can think of.

Once you've created a network of passionate people who are resonant with your vision, you create what we call kaleidoscopic creation ... everyone bringing a unique part of the picture to the game.

Source a space for contribution from everyone who plays. Everyone has a unique contribution to make and something different and amazing to bring to the party. Acknowledge that everyone participating can contribute in some wonderful way. Source a space for them to be able to play in full self-expression and shared collaboration. When you source a space for a vision or project, take a deep breath, expand your energy and visualise the energetic field/space in which everyone will play. Call creation into this space and mix into it the contribution from everyone involved. You'll be amazed at the difference this will make to the movement and outcomes of your vision/project and the people involved.

Get people to do what they're passionate about ... and only that. Let passion abound!!! If it's not fun, something is lost in translation. Passion equals energy and creativity, which in turn creates wonderful momentum and more people wanting to play. Social creation is a win / win / win scenario for everyone who's touched by it, including the people who are doing the 'work' for it.

Ignite the sparks of brilliance. How do you get the magic out of people? Brilliance becomes easy to access when you shift from problem to potential and from fixing to creation. Give people a space to express themselves openly and freely in vibrant ways. Orient to what they really care about and get them in touch with the passion and ideas that spring from that. Then totally SEE them for who they really are and listen to them like they have the most amazing thing to contribute now.

Listen expression into contribution, passion and potential. Listening from the space of contribution allows ideas and passion to flow easily into completely different outcomes. It's about finessing the skill of listening brilliance out of everyone! You can't just listen to the words from how you've always known them to be. You literally have to take an active part in creating their speaking as brilliance showing up in the world. This isn't done with your ears or your mind, but with the whole of your being energetically engaging with that person to create him/her showing up brilliantly. You literally call what wants to be said for us all through them now. This skill will take you far in creating wonderful things in the world with others!

Have everyone connect to CREATION. This sounds like an obvious thing, but it's amazing how many people forget to do this. The energetic rush and brilliant ideas that come from this simple energetic step are incredible. Try it yourself now and see what happens. Intend to connect to creation now and see how that feels. When you're working in a group together, whether that's in person, on the phone or on the net, always get the group to align to their greater selves, to the bigger potential of that moment and then connect to creation. Then watch the project soar!!!

Recognise that this is your new reality now. Don't try to push a new idea through. Instead believe that this is the way Life wants to be now and that everyone can choose whether they want to dance within that or not. It's about moving beyond 'this is the way the world is' to only having eyes and celebration for 'this is the way the world can be now.' You create a fully engaged, vibrant reality in which people can play. You're creating the field of possibility for this as a brand new reality for everyone to choose.

Source the consciousness of what you stand for. When working with vision, you're building a field ... a consciousness for a new possibility ... a new way of being for something new. Connect to all the players who want that now and energise that as living reality. Write from it, speak for it, make it as conscious as you can in all aspects of your life. Speak as if it's already a true reality. Once that energetic field is created then opportunities begin to pop up easily and you can work passionately and effortlessly through it all.

Play, be magical, call synergy and synchronicity to your vision and game. Be curious. Be adventuresome. Be bold and have fun in all you're up to. Make sure you're willing to try new things and to bring the 'magic' to that! Magical synergy is when you and Life align for what wants to happen now. Books write straight on through you. People come towards you. Opportunities show up. And brilliance oozes out of every pore of you as you become a voice for what wants to be now. Try it now. Ask Life what wants to happen through you now to make this world a better place. Listen with all of you and let the ideas pop in to your conscious awareness. It's not something you 'think' about. The answers aren't in your head. They're in the air, the space, the consciousness all around you. Simply let yourself know what wonderful contribution and vision is yours to make now.

Align with Life and tune into what your next actions might be. Once you understand what's yours to do, say yes to it, call the resonant players to it, source the space for it and align it all in gracious, passionate, creational power. Then ask what the next steps might be to move it forward wonderfully now. Once everything is aligned, the next steps will reveal themselves to you. Expand, connect with all of Life and ask what's the right next thing to do around it all. Ask the vision. Ask your greater self. Ask the consciousness. You'll be amazed what great guidance you'll get from all of this, with super energy coming right along with it. Once you know which actions have the optimum energy, then dive in with them right away as that gets things to move in hyper-speed grace.

Put things in motion now. Do one thing now that will move it all forward immediately. You're creating momentum. Too often people can kill a project through planning. In the new paradigm ways, there's loads of spontaneity and magical co-creation. Write it, speak it, coach it, train it, create websites for it, host events for it and do just about anything that will start to make it real for people and allow them to connect with it.

Allow yourself to be in multi-channel, hyper-speed flow. Too often people are told to only focus on one thing at a time. But when you're working energetically, it's the opposite that creates the optimum results. Go with the flow of the energy. If it's guiding you to work on three or ten projects and visions today, then go with that flow. Let yourself multi-task / multi-channel. Let the energy take you over and move you beyond traditional time sense. You can create as much time as you need simply by intending it so. And you can weave and dance between projects without losing any focus at all. Grow your social creations by diving into multi-channel, hyper-speed flow!

VIBRANT ENERGY: One of the key challenges people have when tackling big visions is the concern about taking on too much and getting exhausted from it. Well we're talking here about a completely new paradigm of all that. Visionary creators work with limitless energy, the energy of Life and what wants to happen now. To access limitless energy for yourself, simply ...

- Take a deep breath and let your energy expand from the centre point out, like your awareness is getting bigger than the Earth and expanding out into the cosmoses (just try it and see how it feels).
- Throw your shoulders back and arms out, like you're welcoming the sun on a beautiful sunny day by the beach.
- Then connect through you, deep inside, to the Life source energy, the energy that makes the grass grow, the limitless energy of Life soaring into play.
- Run this energy through you, all of you, your legs, your arms, your whole being and let it flow like a fountain into the world all around you. You're filling up the world with vibrant Life source energy.

How does that feel? Pretty neat huh! If you do this regularly, you'll find that you'll operate in a vibrant state, bringing amazing energy and vitality to all that you're up to and to all the people you're sharing that with. It's not your personal energy that's being used to fulfil the vision / project. It's Life soaring through you to bring what wants to happen now into play!

LEADERFUL COLLABORATION: Leadership has always seemed like a hierarchical thing. There are all the followers and then there's the leader (singular), the person who carries the weight of it all on their shoulders. But in this new time, there's leaderful collaboration that allows each person to express, contribute and lead from their passions.

If you're the visionary, then yes, you're the one who gets to be sure that it's turning out. But believe us when we say that in the NEW, you can't do that alone. It's about bringing something alive in people and inviting their co-creation into the game with you. When it's lined up, resonant and right, wow, do these collaborations soar!

It's about getting the vision so compelling that it reaches into every single person who resonates with it and calls them into play. You don't want to have your co-creators wait to be invited to do their thing. You want to unleash the creativity in them to contribute to the whole. All of this is best done in resonant groups, so don't try to make it work with people or opportunities that you know just aren't right. Tune in, know what's the best for your vision and follow that.

You are the steward for the vision. You're the one who's said YES to bringing it through. But with these new mega visions ... visions that transform us all socially and globally ... you really have to dance with others to make it come true. It's a partnership but on a far greater level. It's because you're all called to and aligned with a greater purpose that makes that work wonderfully for everyone involved.

You move from an individual orientation to a collective orientation. You're working not just for yourself and your passions, but for Life and all that's possible now. Working collectively, beyond self, is an amazing state to work in. You're constantly full of great energy and ideas. You get along with others and you always follow your passion for things. You create wonderful new things and ways to work. You go around problems and discover solutions that no one has thought of before.

You discover multi-streaming, hyper-speed working, in which you get more done in a day than you can possibly imagine, able to move fluidly from one thing to another. Collective working is a delight and offers a state change beyond our individual orientation to Life as we've known it.

TRANSFORMATIVE PLAY: When you orient to working transformatively, the sky's the limit. You stand in the fact that you can get anything to turn out. You work with the energy of transformation and you don't see the world as you used to see it. You know that not only is anything possible, but that you now have the ability to turn anything out by ...

1. connecting with your greater knowing,
2. standing in the flow of what wants to happen now for all of Life and
3. seeking win/win/win creations so that everyone is celebrated and honoured.

Transformative play, like leaderful collaboration, is a state change. You literally step bigger than yourself. And that naturally happens when you take on something wonderfully BIG. It's like it sweeps you up in its thrall and takes you to new places. You learn to surf the wave and let it journey you to new shores. You become a transformative catalyst, lighting up Life everywhere you go. You no longer get lost in 'how things are out there', and you source the way things want to be with fun, verve, vigour and vitality. And you have a ball doing it. You light up Life and Life lights up you.

CONSCIOUSNESS AND FIELD CREATION

Social creation and global transformation happen in the collective field of potentiality and possibility. What if the air we breathe is pregnant with potential? Every moment, every breath, potential waits for someone to partner it through into Life. Visionary creators know this and orient to living in this way. They're potentialists and creationalists. They work in the field of consciousness and in reality to bring their visions alive.

Working in collective consciousness is like greasing the skids to make things move graciously and easily. If you want to introduce something new into consciousness, then ...

1. Breathe, relax, expand and connect to Life, to consciousness, to all there is.
2. Don't just be in there in oneness. Be ALL of it sourcing movement into Life. In other words, make motion happen. Just intend it and see what happens.
3. Next call the energy of the next level of potential for you and for us all to zing through into consciousness. You're magnetising it, calling it present, bringing it into the air we breathe and streaming it through into the fabric of the field so people wake up with that as a possibility the next days.
4. Intend that your gift of potentiality, that Life wants to have happen now, is streaming through the people, the trees, the water, the flowers, the birds, the oceans, the skies and the Earth itself. Call Life present into everything and zing up your gift to us all.
5. Then partner with that energy / potential, say yes to it, and move into a dance with it to live it in every fun way you can.

How does that feel? You just seeded consciousness for us all.

If you're looking at a bigger field, like creating visionary business as a new way of working in the world, then you step into field creation.

FIELD CREATION is like creating an alchemical pot, a big energetic creation of consciousness as a brand new way. This is generally done in collective creation, as opposed to on your own, although through writing and other ways, you can do it yourself and then get it out there.

In field creation, you're dreaming up new possibilities. You're finding out what really wants to happen around this now and you're mixing into the consciousness all that everyone wants to see now. So for example, in the case of visionary business, you might add abundance for all, everywhere around the world. Or that people love coming to work everyday. And that companies contribute to people, society and the world as a natural, abundant part of their ethos and work. You invite others to tune in to what wants to happen now and you co-create a field of consciousness for this now. When it's ready, you stir it all up and zing it out there into the field of consciousness for everyone to choose, absorb and live into. You just created a field of new possibility that you and others can now live into. You just made the realisation of it easier for all.

You create the space from which the new visionary ideas emerge. As the collective consciousness grows and moves, the global impact is so readily and easily visible. It isn't as if you have to go out and look for proof, proof just shows up. It's the celebration of new possibility and potential being made real.

Field creation and consciousness shifting is great fun and an awesome experience to do with a resonant group of visionaries who care about the same things you do with an equal amount of passion. If you're feeling a call to a vision, then invite all the people you know to come together for a vibrant, creational few hours together around it. Let each person express their passions and put them into the alchemical pot to create what's possible together. Then see what wants to happen from there.

Together we can create what alone we can only dream.

WONDERFUL EXAMPLES OF SOCIAL CREATION

We love finding brilliant examples of social creation that are transforming the world. Our website www.wowingtheworld.com lists a number of great visions, projects and social creators around the world. But here are a few of our favourites so you can celebrate these wonderful social creators right along with us!

'Let's Do It' Campaign ... a brilliant example of collaborative, leaderful creation by visionary creators in Estonia with their Clean Up Estonia Campaign. With over 50,000 volunteers 10,000 tons of illegal waste was cleaned up in a single day. Watch their YouTube video at www.youtube.com/watch?v=A5GryIDI0qY&feature=player_embedded

The Mali Initiative is a not-for-profit network whose vision is that human potential all around the world is unleashed to create a sustainable world. Through friendship and equal partnership, they assist communities from around the world to turn their dreams and aspirations of sustainable development into reality. Watch their YouTube video at www.youtube.com/watch?v=tr1dwgB4kNE or visit their website www.mali-initiative.org

A Wow Wedding ... Social creation doesn't have to look like a project or a big vision. Sometimes it happens wondrously and with loads of fun from the very nature of looking to do things differently. Here's a wonderful example of that as this couple wows their guests with a very different social creation of a wedding! www.youtube.com/watch?v=4-94JhLEiN0&feature=fvw

Fusion Halifax is a passionate, organic organisation that connects, engages and inspires young people to make Halifax a vibrant city overflowing with young talent. They do this by inspiring people to tap into and leverage their passions towards creating positive change and a better way of life for everyone. Visit their website at www.fusionhalifax.ca and listen to an audio interview of three of their visionaries at www.newvisionaries.net/NewVisionaries/Fusion.htm

Vibrant visionary business ... One of our favourite vibrant, visionary businesses is Innocent in the UK www.innocentdrinks.com

They do everything in fun, wonderful, vibrant ways, including producing superb nutritional products, taking care with the environment (e.g. with their Buy 1 One 1 Tree project), having their employees love their jobs and including customers, employees and founders in their annual general meetings. They host an Innocent Foundation, gifting 10% of their profits to world changing projects. Check out their Foundation work at http://innocentdrinks.typepad.com/innocent_drinks/2009/07/meet-the-guardians.html where you'll see a wonderful video on the MicroLoan Foundation, creating entrepreneurs in Africa.

There are many, many more social creation projects in the world and we celebrate and acknowledge every single one, making a difference, creating the NEW for us all!

SPECIAL CONTRIBUTIONS FROM US

Each of us (the co-authors of this guide) are visionary creators in our own right and we each bring wonderfully unique perspectives to the game of social creation and global transformation. Read on as we share some of the gems of our own learning and experiences with you.

Dorothy Eckes (USA)
Already Done!

My social creation viewpoint comes from my familiarity with it “already done”. I’m standing in “done”, and welcoming others to come on in. What I’ve seen is the direct correlation between social creation and relationships. There’s an infrastructure of relationships that support any societal creation or culture change/shift. We each have an area of interest which makes us particularly effective in playing with that area, AND, we’re all moving toward the same thing: celebrating uniqueness, full self-expression, and the awareness of connection.

My attention falls on supporting those who can identify their “area” in addressing the potential of the relationships that both support and are affected by it. When those relationships are attended, the social creation glides over the infrastructure!

About Dorothy: I’m an evolutionary coach and visionary leader. I coach, facilitate and train the movers and shakers who are co-creating our new reality. I’m especially thrilled to be a voice / trainer for The Coaches Leap ... the next level of coaching.
www.thecoachesleap.com

Judi Richardson (Canada)
My Business as a Profitable Source of Pleasure

Social creators love to use their “business” as a physical vehicle for the expression and action of global transformation, without exception.

My work is expressed through projects of engagement, relationship building and true collaboration with individuals, organizations, communities and countries. What I see over and over is that the freedom we’re seeking is freedom from resistance.

You’ll only find freedom when the behavior of others becomes a non-issue ... because you are able to focus your mind in ways that allow your connection even in the face of others who are not connected. This isn’t about getting others to do what you want them to do! The freedom you seek is not about having everyone in agreement with you. It is the alignment that comes from knowing you are on a path and connected. The feeling of ownership, the feeling of guarding or protecting, the feeling of making others come into agreement before you get what you want, will render you powerless every single time.

In social creation people come together because they instinctively know that no one person has all the answers. They know that each person holds a piece of the story and that coming together to listen to each others' stories gains everyone an understanding far greater than their own. It is this synthesis of the whole that opens up the portal to the implicit – enabling the strategic inflow of wisdom into the group. People come to any gathering with a fundamental question for which they are looking for an answer. The questions we choose are not to gloss over issues – they are to enlarge perspective so that a picture of the whole system can emerge. The invitation to discuss what is happening, create a vision for the future, and bring that vision to life – provides reflective time for participants to discover their own path to overcoming resistance to change, to participate in shared meaning and begin the conversations about the way we work together that happens one person at a time on a daily basis.

Participants described times in the group when the boundaries normally experienced between them seem to dissolve. At these times, participants seem to make the deliberate choice not to see their interests as separate from anyone else's, and in so doing they begin to experience the sweetness of unity and the harmonious forward movement of the whole. The gathering settles into a graceful and profound flow of communication, understanding, and knowing with all present. There is no loss of identity; rather there is a heightened sense of each one's essential part in the whole, and rightness about every word that is offered and every action that is taken. This is a liberating formation in which people are able to practice knowing their sameness, and simultaneously offer their unique gifts.

As one of my clients said recently, "I am learning to digest all of the goodness flowing at me without being overwhelmed by it!" Isn't that delicious?

About Judi: I'm called both an artist and an engineer for my ability to engage others to ignite vision, performance and aligned action. I'm passionate about creating momentum in business as a profitable source of pleasure! I work and play with individuals and organizations creating the most creative and sustainable enterprises – imaginable. I'm here to help create the organizations that are creating the future.
www.ponoconsultants.com

Manisha Dahad (UK)
Igniting Brilliance Through Harmony & Wholeness

Visionary social creation isn't just about 'let's go do something good for humanity.' We are here to bring our brilliance and vision to life. It springs out of our true essence and purpose and we create from it so very naturally. When we allow ourselves to SEE, HEAR and CONNECT to the brilliance in ourselves and others, we bring it to life easily. This brilliance always comes from wholeness and creates joy and harmony for everyone. We begin to become conscious of our existence and understand that whatever we do has an impact on the whole of life.

When we create from brilliance and vision, it's no longer about the impact on our bottom line or the difference we want to make in society. It is just about joyful co-creation from our passions and brilliance in collaboration with others. All this happens because we just want to create and bring our visions alive and feel the interconnectedness with all. And in the process, everyone benefits; new sustainable solutions become available, society transforms and people live from their true power. Everything and everybody engages in creating collectively!

When this happens, we see that people from different races, backgrounds, experiences connect to the power and brilliance in each other and create a very different world. Charities, NGOs, aid agencies and companies also begin to connect and create from the unique contributions of all.

About Manisha: I'm a visionary with a passion for true social creation that's easy, exciting and makes a difference to the whole of society. I love igniting the sparks of brilliance in people so that they can become self empowered individuals in their communities and create a sense of interconnectedness. A total believer in people power, I know that each individual will contribute uniquely to the transformation of our world.

I hold a vision for a very new world where creation is simple, potential is seen, communities flourish with love and collaboration and new ideas sparkle everywhere and become real!! A world where we get to experience each individual's gifts with delight and wonder!

I work with charities, NGOs and companies to create partnerships that bring about sustainable solutions for all through collective social creation initiatives and through the coaching of Visionary Social Creators. I also like to shine the light on the brilliance of social initiatives and creators through short films. Last year, I took a film crew to the slums of Mumbai, India and filmed two wonderful young people there expressing beautiful potential. The film is called 'Taking Our Breath Away' and you can watch it at www.igniteall.com I'm also the co-founder of the Centre for Social Brilliance www.socialbrilliance.org

Soleira Green (UK) Hosting Visionary Events

I love hosting visionary events where we bring people together to source the consciousness and the reality of new ways of living in this world. My specialty area has to do with collective consciousness creation and for that I would recommend the following for anyone who wants to take that on ...

1. Don't be afraid to step outside the bounds of normal thinking. FREE THINK. Always look for a new way to see things and to share them with others, even to the point of making up new words that match the latest NEW!
2. Be willing to be a voice for that NEW possibility. Let the energy of this potential, this new possibility, flow through you to uplift your speaking and writing. Be bold and daring and question those automatic thoughts that keep you from dancing onwards with it all.
3. Don't be concerned about what others may think about you. You're a being who cares or you wouldn't be taking this on in the first place, but you also have a responsibility to the potential to express it in its truest form. I deal with this by creating a reality in which people are open to new ideas and then calling those resonant others to me to engage with it. That way I don't find criticism or angst in my reality around it all. Instead I source a world consciousness in which the NEW is wondrously embraced as possibility and every new voice can be heard.

4. Make sure to get loads of friends in on this with you. Call to you the people who want to play, who line up with what you're up to. And get them all in one place together, whether that's at a physical event or on a telecall or on the consciousness airwaves at a particular time. Collective energetics is a wonderful thing to play in. Be sure you're sourcing a vibrant, creative space in which that coming together occurs.
5. Make sure to have everyone align first before beginning to work together. The more they're lined up energetically, the better the whole thing goes. In fact, lining up brings grace to any collective endeavour.
6. Liberate each person to express their unique contribution and train your crew how to transformatively listen the best out of everyone. Transformative listening means listening beyond the words to the true brilliance that wants to come through that person. It's an active creation on your part to literally call brilliant speaking from each and every person.
7. Next create an alchemical pot, an energetic space in which individual contributions can be added. You literally are working with the energy and consciousness of contributions, mixing them into the whole, stirring it up and setting it alight with passion and creativity. Everyone contributes ... it's kaleidoscopic creation!
8. Finally, get the whole group to whoosh this collective creation all around the world for everyone to benefit from. It's about gifting this creation to the world, through consciousness, so that everyone thrives within the new consciousness you collectively create.

I host visionary events at least two to three times a year and love doing it. I also do the same on visionary telecall series with our graduates to bring the latest NEW into being and to keep the big work moving in new developments. It's about having fun together and creating what we've never created before. Fabulous and so fulfilling to live in a world of mega creators sharing their brilliance together. May you have a marvellous time in your own collective creations!

About Soleira: I'm a global visionary, transformative trainer/coach, visionary event host and prolific writer. I'm also the co-founder of the Visionary Network www.transformingourworld.com and www.visionarybiz.biz and a co-creator of the on line Genius Game www.thegeniusgame.com